In the Criminal Court, Judge MacArthur, yesterday, the trial of the case of Antonio Nardello, charged with the murder of Carmine Rotunno on the 29th of August last, was continued after THE STAR's report closed.

Judge MacArthur said when Detective Block undertook to make a formal examination of the prisoner in his cell, he was bound to give the prisoner information as to his right to be silent on the subject. He cautioned the officers not to obtain statements from persons accused of murder without giving the accused notice that he need not contess unless he chose. He would dmit such statements only as were not conssions, or were given without any constraint, promise or duress. Detective Block, resuming his testimony, said Nardello denied that all the clothing taken from the trank was his, but when the gray pants, with blood on them, was shown, he grew much excited, saying: "Me not afraid to die." On the afternoon of the Sunday succeeding the murder, at the Boundary police station, he said, according to the testimony of he detective: "Three persons in this. know my neck's gone. Me not care tor neck. Pasquale Abondante and Pasquale Gesemonte sitting down in Italian shanty talk about Rotunno have much money. Pasquale said, 'Let's take it away,' and say, Anony, you take him over to the house, get up in the morning and go out; me go to railroad track to Officer Whitehouse, and when I git to railroad track devil get into me (pointing to forehead), and me go back and go back and go back. A Boy FINED $20 FOR AN ASSAULT.-Leonard Johnson, the colored boy who struck James Henderson, a colored newsboy, on the head with a stone, about two weeks ago, was charged before Judge Snell this morning with assault and battery. Henderson testified that Johnson and battery. Henderson testified that Johnson became angry because witness asked him to get bim his oil can to oil his velocipede, and, after quarreling some time, Johnson struck him on the head with a stone, knocking him down. Edward Hollin, colored, testified to seeing the boys quarreling, and to seeing Johnson throw the stone at Henderson. The defendant testified that they had some trouble about their hats, and Henderson threw a stone at him and threatened to kill defendant, when he threw a stone back at him. The judge said that this was a bad habit these boys had of throwing stones, and something would have to be done to stop it. A fine of $20 was imposed.

> Against the Oil Monopoly. RAILROAD ENJOINED FROM GIVING THE STANDARD COMPANY BETTER RATES THAN

COLUMBUS, OHIO, Dec. 10.—The supreme court has decided the case of Scofield, Schurmer & Teagle against the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railway in favor of the plaintiffs. They are independent oil refiners of Cleveland, and sought to enjoin the railroad com-pany from granting the Standard Oil company lower rates for carrying oil from Cleveland and the west than it granted to them. They claimed that lower rates were given the Standard Oil company by giving them a rebate on the regu-lar tariff. The case was decided by Judge Blandin, of the Cuyahoga common pleas, and the question raised was reserved in the district court and the case brought direct to the supreme court, where it was argued a few weeks ago, and has just been decided in favor of the firm.

THE SENATOR SHARPLY CRITICISES THE SECRE-TARY OF WAR. In the Senate to-day Mr. Dolph introduced bill to amend the act of the last Congress to allow to officers and soldiers compensation for personal property lost at their quarters while iffied that there was about $18,000 in money they are absent on duty. The Secretary of War in the chest in his report called attention to this act and advised that it be modified and restricted, as it was entirely too broad in its terms. Mr. Dolph in his remarks agreed substantially with the Secretary, saying the act as it stood practically allowed compensation for personal property lost by officers and soldiers under any circumstances. ago between the general passenger agents. The general ticket offices then reduced the rate to the same figure, and it is generally thought here to-day that this will furnish the starting point to-day that this will not be confined to St. said the Secretary had made some blunders, and intimated that while he may be an able jurist he is incompetent as Secretary. "I have not read it all," replied the general, extending his hand. "I have read some of it, nowever, and several points struck me as very good. One in particular I remember. The President refers to the judge advocate general of the army's report, and says he sees by it that about haif the army had been court-martialed during the year. He had read some of these court-martial proceedings himself, and was of the opinion that there ought to be some better means than court-martial of guarding the honor and dignity of the army. I agree with the President in this."

From this it appears that Mr. Randall will be the only one to oppose the resolution in the committee. It will probably stand four to one for a change of the rules, and Mr. Randall will be likely to bring in a minority report. The sentiment in the House seems to be favorable to a change of the rules, but quite a strong and possibly successful opposition to the distribution of the appropriation bills is likely to pring up. Many of the conservative members approve of Mr M rrison's resolution in every particular, bu tuink it would be better to let all the appropriations remain in one committee, whose authorations remain in one committee, whose authority, however, will be restricted to the routine matter of appropriation merely, and who will be obliged to report within a specified time.

The relatives of the deceased have been informed by letter of the strange circumstances surrounding young Lytton's end, already published, and it is thought that through the British consul they will demand the holding of an autopsy more thorough than the cursory investigation which at the time Deputy Coroner Herold deemed necessary. Coroner Messemer said last night to a Heroid reporter that though confident that Lytton had met with a natural death, he thought that the suspicions so popularly entertained should be allayed, and that he himself would make the autopsy gratis pro-NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—There was an irregular pening at the stock exchange this morning. opening at the stock exchange this morning, but in a majority of cases first prices were to be per cent lower, while Northwestern was down to per cent.
